Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Gianni Schicchi Schicchi is a keen, shrewd, Tuscan peasant of the thirteenth century, who has succeeded in making his way in Florence in spite of many handicaps. Rinuccio, a young fellow in love with Lauretta, Schicchi's daughter, asks his advice over a certain will. Buoso Donati, it appears, having died without direct descendants, had left all his fortune to a monastery, much against the hopes of his relatives-Rinuccio's family - who had gathered around his deathbed. Schicchi says there is one remedy only: he can impersonate the dead man - whose demise has not yet been announced - and dictate a new will, in which each of the relatives will get just what he wants. The kinsfolk are delighted at this idea, and send for a notary. The notary comes, and Schicchi, in Donati's bed, dictates the will; but, after bequeathing a few minor pieces of property to the relatives, he leaves the bulk of Donati's fortune to himself. The relatives do not dare protest for fear of the law. The...
