By Dorothy Fontaine

Barron s Educational Series Inc.,U.S., United States, 2007. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 269 x 193 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Author Dorothy Fontaine shows how to apply the teaching theory of renowned educator Howard Gardner to the practice of building studentsA word power for academic success. More than 20 years ago, Gardner first offered the education profession his now famous theory of Multiple Intelligences, or MI. Widely accepted today for its beneficial results, MI contends that every student is equipped with eight or more separate types of intelligence, but each student is stronger in some intelligence sources, weaker in others. Multiple Intelligences include logical-mathematical, musical, spatial, and contact with nature, among others. GardnerA s approach to learning starts by discovering each studentA s several areas of intellectual strength, then concentrating on those specific strengths as starting points for educating the student in all subjects. In this book, author Dorothy Fontaine focuses GardnerA s MI theory and applies it in ways designed to help students build the strong vocabulary theyA ll need for success as they go on to higher education. For example, among her suggestions for teaching vocabulary building to a A Musical/Rhythmic LearnerA . . . Put...
