The effect of such a testament as constituting a trust in favour of the nextof-kin is a purely statutory effect, depending on a statute of the Scottish Parliament which made it a trust to the extent of twothirds of the estate, and in the Moveable Succession Act, which constitutes it a trust to the full extent. It is not to be supposed that in framing a will in this form the testator had heritage in view. If the maker of a testament introduces the words heritable estate or equivalent words, I should give effect to them; but if bespeaks of estate only, I should take it that he refers only to such estate as can be passed by a proper testament. I therefore agree with your Lordship in the chair. Lord Kinnear--It is very difficult in this ease to know what the testator...
